Grand Jury Report.

TO the Honorable the Judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Adams county.

The Grand Jury for the August Term, 1866, having viewed the Public Buildings, beg leave to submit the following report:

We found the Jail building, with the cells, &c. in good order, neat and clean, and in a condition highly creditable to the officer in charge.

We have the same to say in regard to the Almshouse. The rooms of the inmates, as well as the beds, presented an air of cleanliness and comfort which spoke well for the Steward.

We noticed that the buildings and grounds immediately surrounding them were enclosed with a fine substantial fence, which, whilst it adds considerably to the appearance of the place, is also a great convenience, and assistance to the Steward, by keeping the inmates within bounds.

We also noticed a great improvement in the Cooking department, which, whilst it adds considerably to the appearance of the place, is also a great convenience, and assistance to the Steward, by keeping the inmates within bounds.

Choice Poetry.

IN PEACE.

Oh leave me to my reveries.
My own pure spirit revels fair,
My atom's trembling under their pleases,
My flower-like, my flower trees,
My blue-walled river flowing there.

And let my life, that streams beside,
Like it pursue its own way,
Far from the loud world's pomp and pride,
Not deep, but ever clear at tide,
And careless of the future day.

Thus let it glide on sweet and slow,
Bordering with flowers, the hills between,
Playing with mossy creeks in its flow,
And grasses waving to and fro,
With willow branches drooping in.

My house rocked by each wind that blows,
Linked hand in hand and feet so free;
In their light track my thoughts unclose,
And fast and fresh the hours that grow,
Beside the trodden public way.

They say that life is hard to bear;
My God! it is not so to me;
Two angels—poetry and prayer—
Like sister's love, like mother's care,
Grasp and keep it pure for Thee.

Child-like, it still pursues a dream,
A hope, a wish, a memory,
Like but a bird's song, a stream,
And in each morning's sunny gleam,
It sees its whole futurity.

Drop upon drop, but how sweet,
For the day's day are given;
There is not one it fears to meet,
Oh God! thus doubtless, at Thy feet,
The angels live in heaven.

And when this happy life is run,
Death must draw very gently high,
Like flowers laid faded by the sun,
When the long summer days are o'er,
We only bend our heads and die!

And if but faith and hope be true,
For his ours and his ours are true,
To contemplate ourselves in prayer,
To yield our souls to angels care,
And sleep, to awaken in the skies.

And when this happy life is run,
Death must draw very gently high,
Like flowers laid faded by the sun,
When the long summer days are o'er,
We only bend our heads and die!

And if but faith and hope be true,
For his ours and his ours are true,
To contemplate ourselves in prayer,
To yield our souls to angels care,
And sleep, to awaken in the skies.

And when this happy life is run,
Death must draw very gently high,
Like flowers laid faded by the sun,
When the long summer days are o'er,
We only bend our heads and die!

And if but faith and hope be true,
For his ours and his ours are true,
To contemplate ourselves in prayer,
To yield our souls to angels care,
And sleep, to awaken in the skies.

And when this happy life is run,
Death must draw very gently high,
Like flowers laid faded by the sun,
When the long summer days are o'er,
We only bend our heads and die!

A Touching Incident.

I went one night to see a comedy. The chief actor was a favorite one, and the house was very crowded. The curtain rose, and amidst a burst of applause the hero of the piece made his appearance. He had hardly uttered twenty words, when it struck me that something was the matter with him.

The play was a boisterous comedy of the old school, and required considerable spirit and vivacity in the actors to sustain it properly; but in this man there was none; he walked and talked like a person in a dream; his best points he passed over without appearing to perceive them; and altogether he was quite unfit for the part.

His smile was ghastly and his laugh hollow and unnatural; and frequently he would stop off suddenly in his speech and let his eyes wander vacantly over the audience.

Even when in the character of a silly husband, he had to suffer himself to be kicked about the stage by a young rake of the comedy, and afterwards to behold that careless individual making love to his wife and eating his supper, while he was shut up in a closet from whence he could not emerge, his contortions of ludicrous wrath, which had never before failed to call down plenty of applause, were now such dismal attempts to portray the passions, that hisses were audible in various parts of the theatre.

The audience were fairly out of temper, and several inquisitive individuals were particular in their inquiries as to the extent of the potatoes he had that day indulged in.

A storm of sibilant and abusive howl fell around the ears of the devoted actor, and not content with verbal insult, orange-peels and apples flew upon the stage.

He stepped and turned to the shouting crowd. I never saw such misery in a human countenance. His face was worn and haggard, and tears rolled down his painted cheeks.

I saw his lips quivering with mental agony—I saw his bosom heave with convulsions of suppressed emotion, and his whole mien betokened such depth of anguish and distress that the most ruthless heart must have throbbed with pity.

The audience were moved, and by degrees the clamor of invectives subsided into a solemn stillness while he stood near the foot light, a picture of dejection. When all was calm he spoke, and in a voice broken with sobs, which seemed to rend his bosom, he offered his explanation.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "though in my acting to-night I am confident of meriting your displeasure, in one thing you do me wrong. I am not intoxicated. Emotion alone and that of the most painful kind, has caused me to feel my allotted part so badly; my wife died but a few short hours ago, and I left her side to fulfill my unavoidable engagement here—If I have not pleased you, I implore you to forgive. I loved her, grieved for her, and if anguish can excuse a fault, I bear my apology here!"

He placed his hand upon his heart, and a burst of tears released his momentary paroxysm of grief.

The audience were thoroughly affected, and an honest burst of sympathy made the walls tremble. Women wept loudly, and strong men silently, and during the remainder of the evening his performance was scarcely audible through the storm of applause by which the crowd sought to soothe the poor man's wounded feelings.

There was something very melancholy in the thought of that wretched man's coming from the bed of death to don gay attire, and utter studied witticisms for the amusement of a crowd, not one of whom dreamed of the anguish that festered under his painted cheek and stage smile.

And in the great theatre of life, how many are there around us, like that poor actor, smiling gaily at the multitude, while at home lies sorrow whose shadow is ever present with them in busy places.

Of all the dark spots of human nature, of all the vile acts of man towards man, none throw such a freezing chill over the whole body, and drive back the purple current on the aching heart, like base and damning ingratitude. Indifference continued, coldness persevered in, favors forgotten, friendship unrequited by one who has been the willing recipient of our esteem and bounty, bring a palsying horror over the soul, that thickens the blood in the veins, making the whole head sick, and the whole heart faint.

Pour upon a man of fine feeling, a noble generous soul, the combined diseases flesh is heir to—let death snatch his loved ones from him—strip him of all his earthly goods—let him be assailed by pious adversity and pinching wants; let prison gates confine his body to the lonely cell—let the poisoned arrows of malice and revenge be hurled, and pierce him with many wounds—these, all these are a paralytic to his bleeding heart, compared with the deadly pang inflicted by base ingratitude.

A day or two since, two ladies from the country, on a shopping excursion to the city, dropped into a hardware store where agricultural implements are sold. They had read John's advertisements, and therefore innocently inquired for "gadgets."

The shopkeeper said it was rather late in the season for the article, and he had sold all he had purchased. The ladies looked at each other wonderingly, and whispered laughingly, when one, turning to the blushing John, remarked:—"Out of season! I thought gadgets were always in season."

The following was found posted on the bulletin of a western post office: Lost—a red Kaf. He had a white spot on I of his hind legs. He was a she kaf. I will give three dollars to anybody who will bring him home.

MR. H. T. HEINBOLD:

Dear Sir:- In regard to the question as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article for some of the past thirty years, and that I think it is the best form of preparation for Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections, Dropsy.

of it I have not used or known to be used in the various diseases where such medicinal agent would be indicated. You are awfully as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired in my judgment is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered bark—the simple decoction, tincture, fluid extract—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant as alluded to by you. I have no hesitatingly urged it to the use of the right to judge of its merits, and with prejudice or partiality, I give yours personal value over all others. I do not value a according to its bulk, if I add other Buchu would out-do yours, but I hold to the doctrine that bulk and quantity do not make up weight—if they did a copper cent would be worth more than a gold dollar.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu, or any other proprietary compound of whatever name. Respectfully, yours,

NOTICE.

THE MODEL SEWING MACHINE.
(From the New York Herald.)
Prominent among the mechanical triumphs of this most ingenious age, common honesty compels us to notice the Empire Sewing Machine, commended as justly styled perfection itself. Useful in the truest sense, it saves time, from time to time presented to the public, each one of them has been cured with some radical defect, which detracts from general utility. Warned by the experience of its predecessors, the inventor of the Empire Machine has produced an instrument, combining all the advantages for which others are valued, and obviating every defect which can be attributed to them by the most fastidious critic. The Empire Machine is a marvellous combination of simplicity, economy and perfect workmanship, being durable, free from liability to get out of order, noiseless, and easy of operation. Its mechanical contrivances are such as to secure stability, freedom from accident, and accuracy as to workmanship. By the use of the patented shuttle and straight needle, it makes a stitch, which, when set in motion, it makes at the same time, it can operate perfectly upon every species of material from leather to cambric, with threads of cotton, linen or silk, from the finest to the coarsest number.

GEARY AND VICTORY!

GRAND UNION MASS MEETING.

ON CULP'S HILL.

SEPTEMBER 18TH, 1866.

The Union County Committee have made arrangements with the State Central Committee of the Union party, to hold a Grand Mass

Meeting, on Tuesday the 18th of September,

on Culp's Hill.

GEN. JOHN W. GEARY,

the Hero of thirty-five Battles, and the Union candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, will positively be present and address the People on the very spot from which he drove the rebel hordes on the 2nd and 3rd days of July, 1863.

The following persons have been invited,

and are expected to address the meeting:

Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, Hon. A. K. McClure,

Prof. Leo Miller, A. H. Chase, and others.

Hon. Mr. Pitkin, a distinguished citizen of Louisiana, and a witness of the recent horrible massacre of Union citizens at New Orleans, is also expected to be present.

The friends of the Union, and especially the Soldiers, in this and adjoining Counties, are cordially invited to turn out in their strength!

The "Boys in Blue" are cordially invited to attend in a body and escort Gen. Geary to the Battle-field. Brevet Brigadier General W. W.

Stewart has been appointed Marshal of the day.

Come one! Come all! The larch-strings of the Union citizens of Gettysburg will be out,

as of old. E. McPHERSON, Chm.

C. HORN, Sec'y. (Sept. 8, 1866.)

Hon. Wm. H. Koontz.

We regret to state that Gen. Koontz is quite sick, of pleurisy, at his home in Somerset, and will be unable to fill his appointments for this week. He may be able to attend the Mass

Meeting on the 18th.

By appointment of the State Committee, Gen.

E. M. Lusk, of Connecticut, has been assigned to Gen. Koontz's appointments in this County, and will fill them.

Gen. Lusk served with distinction in the Army of the Potomac, in command of a Co. of colored brigade, and is a forcible and eloquent speaker.

We put to press always in the afternoon of Monday, so as to be prepared for the morning mail of Tuesday. We, of course, are unable to give an account of the meeting advised to take place last evening at Gettysburg. All we can say, however, is that the

"Geary boys" are about, and will make themselves heard—particularly the "Boys in Blue."

Splendid Peaches.

Our very clever friend, George B. Storer, presented us, on Saturday, with a basket of the finest Peaches we have seen this season.

They averaged more than 8 inches in circumference. We thank him for the interesting and luscious present.

The largest Peach we have heard of this season was one measured by our next door neighbor, Hon. Joel B. Danner, raised on a tree in his yard, which was 104 inches in circumference and weighed nearly 11 ounces. That's hard to beat. Hadn't our Clymer friends better try their hand in clipping it?

Bendersville Fair.

This Exhibition will take place at Bendersville on the 25th, 26th and 27th days of this month, as we learn from the other papers of town, and bills—no communication having been made to this Office on the subject. We are pleased to learn from those papers that the Fair is likely to prove a success. Such exhibitions are certainly of great advantage to a community, inasmuch as they encourage rivalry in the productions of the earth, and lead to improvement in many ways. We can't say so much for the racing; but generally every race has its corresponding thoroughness, and we have to take "a little of the bad with the good."

The Union State Convention of New York has unanimously re-nominated Gov.

Fenton as their candidate for Governor.

The "Club" met on Saturday evening, appointed a Delegate to the Soldiers' Convention at Pittsburgh on the 25th inst., added several names to its roll, and transacted important business in reference to the pending campaign. Speeches were made by Messrs. McCreary, McPherson, and McConaghy. The "Club" is a live organization.

We see it announced that Senator DOOLITTLE has been invited to speak at the Clymer meeting in Gettysburg on the 4th of October. As DOOLITTLE is in favor of Negro Suffrage, and so voted to change the Constitution of Wisconsin last year, are we to understand that the Democrats of Adams approve his opinions and course on this question? Senator DOOLITTLE publicly boasted in the Senate, at the last session, that he voted for that proposition. It looks as if the Democracy of Pennsylvania were preparing to adopt it. If not, why bring to this State, as stumpers, men who favor it?

New Post Office.

A new Post-office has been established at Wm. A. McSherry's Store, in Mount Pleasant township, with Mr. McSherry as Postmaster. The name of the office is "Red Land."

A dog of Mr. John Kitzmiller, near this place, supposed to be mad, bit Mrs. Kitzmiller and her daughter, about ten days ago. The dog was immediately shot. Proper remedies have been applied to the wounds, and the females are doing well.

Capt. John S. Forrest has been appointed Postmaster at Hanover, in the place of W. F. Star, removed.

The cholera has nearly disappeared from Cincinnatti, only 13 deaths having occurred from Saturday to Wednesday. The number of deaths in the past month are reported by the Board of Health at 1,143. The cholera still rages at St. Louis—75 deaths being reported Wednesday. It still lingers at New York.

Speeie Coming from Europe.

The steamer Borussia sailed from Hamburg on the 12th ult., for the United States, and arrived at New York on Thursday last, with $21,000, and 1,500,000 francs, in specie, on American account.

The Southern Loyalists' Convention at Philadelphia, on Wednesday, passed a resolution unanimously, appointing a committee to proceed to St. Louis by the same route traveled by the President, and address the people.—Messrs. Branscome, of Missouri, Griffin, of Alabama, John M. Botts, of Virginia, Durant, of Louisiana, Francis Thomas and Stockbridge, of Maryland, Stokes of Tennessee, and Governor Hamilton, of Texas, were appointed as the committee, and amidst great applause were instructed to terminate their tour by a visit to the tomb of the late President Lincoln, and pay to the memory of that illustrious martyr the debt of gratitude due to him from the Union men of the South.

European news of Thursday's date brings intelligence that peace negotiations between Prussia and Saxony have again commenced. Reports are current in Berlin, that orders have been issued to the Prussian military commanders for a reduction of the effective military force. The Duchy of Hesse Darmstadt has ceded to Prussia twenty square miles of her territory as indemnity for war expenses. She has also given her three millions of florins.

Bndron, Pa., September 4.—The largest meeting ever held in this part of the States is now going on. Speeches have been made by Thaddeus Stevens, Hon. John Cress, Colonel A. K. McClure, General Williamson, Dr. S. R. Duffield, and others.

THE MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Union Mass Meeting last Wednesday evening in Philadelphia, is conceded, on all hands, to have been the most remarkable and overwhelming demonstration ever held in this country. The estimates vary, of the number present; but there were certainly not less than 100,000. The meeting was held on Broad street, which wide avenue was crowded from Pine to Market, while Chestnut, Walnut, and other Main streets were jammed for several squares.—The speaking was from seven regular stands, besides those made on the spur of the moment; and among the speakers were Hon. James Harlan, John M. Botts, Gen. Butler, R. C. Schenck, Henry Wilson, Senator Williams, W. Fairchild, Hon. E. McPherson, A. J. Fletcher, of Tennessee, and various delegates to the Southern Union Convention.

The "North American," a dispassionate paper, thus describes some incidents:—Nothing that occurred during the evening more impressed us than the exceeding gratification of the loyal Southerners to this Convention. Many of them, remembering the outrages and indignities they had endured in their own homes, at the hands of their slave-holding neighbors, stood looking at the "remarkable spectacle," as John Bunyan has it, with the water in their eyes. At home they encounter cold looks and frigid intercourse at best. The warmth of their welcome here, the oration of last night in their honor, touched their inmost heart.

Even the reporters of the New York Herald, instructed specially to deride and under estimate this movement, did so with reluctance, and admitted that in all their experience they had seen nothing like this demonstration. The gathering was not one of boys and idlers; it was made up of the bone and sinew of the people of the city.

Such cheering was never before heard. It was as if Richmond had fallen, as if Lee had again surrendered. You cannot do justice to the grandness of the spectacle.

Vermont Election.

The general election in the State of Vermont took place on Thursday last, and has resulted in the complete triumph of the Republicans. Governor Dillingham is re-elected by a majority of 5,000 more than last year. All the State Senators are Republicans, and they have 80 majority in the House. Two Republican members of Congress are elected, while in the other district, where there were three candidates, no election was made, as it requires a majority to elect, instead of a plurality.

At the next trial a plurality of votes decides the contest.

The very favorable condition of the finances of the Government, as shown by the August statement of the public debt, is constantly advancing government securities. The seven-thirties being relatively higher in the market than the five-twenties, somewhat impedes their conversion, and prevents its being done as rapidly as is desirable. Until these seven thirties are disposed of, there is little probability of the Secretary being able to float the five per cent. loan.

At the present rate of receipts of gold the Treasury will hold nearly one hundred millions by the first of October. There is no immediate design entertained by the Secretary of selling the surplus gold, as there is no necessity of his doing so to supply the demand of the merchants and others, which it is believed will be fully met by supplies from California and from abroad.

There is every reason to expect a considerable reduction of the premium during the month, and this would occur now, were it not that the market is so largely oversold.

Governor Fairchild, of Wisconsin, was one of the bravest heroes of the war against the rebellion. A gentleman who was introduced to him the other day in Philadelphia observed, as he took his left hand, that he had lost his right arm.

"Yes," said the Governor in reply, "I attended a Convention at Gettysburg in 1863, and met a Southern delegate who was very anxious to walk arm in arm with me, and when we separated I found that the embrace had been rather costly." The remark was quietly made, but suggested a world of valuable reflections.

Negro suffrage, as is well known, cannot be the issue in the Pennsylvania canvass. The address of the Union State Committee says: "The Constitution of Pennsylvania permits only white men to vote. By its terms it can be amended only once in every five years, and having been amended in 1864, allowing the soldiers the right to vote, it cannot, in conformity with its own provisions, be amended again until 1869. It is hoped, therefore, our Democratic friends will restrain themselves, and not press negro suffrage upon us before authorized by the Constitution of the State."

RELIGIOUS TESTS IN RUSSIA.—It is announced in a letter from St. Petersburg that an imperial ukase has just been issued abolishing all punishments heretofore inflicted upon persons for renouncing the Greek Church, the State religion of Russia. This reform is regarded as almost as great a step in advanced civilization as the recent abolition of serfdom, and it speaks well for the enlightened policy of the Emperor Alexander.

The Supreme Court of New York on Thursday, in full bench, declared the Excise law constitutional, and decided that the Excise Board cannot be enjoined. Liquor dealers must now take out licenses or pay a heavy penalty.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S TOUR.

The President of the United States, accompanied by Secretaries Seward and Welles, Postmaster General Randall, Gen'l Grant and Admiral Farragut, have made a tour through the north and northwest, and have everywhere been received with the respect due to their official positions. The President made speeches at various points, in response to addresses of welcome. At one or two points some insulting remarks were made by some rowdies in the crowd, and the President rather lost his temper.

The party reached Chicago on Wednesday night about 10 1/2 o'clock. This was the main point of their destination—and the object, to be present at laying the cornerstone of a monument to Stephen A. Douglas, the great statesman of the Northwest.

On Thursday, the ceremonies took place, and were witnessed by thousands upon thousands. A battalion of Knights Templar, and a large body of Masons, were present. The latter ascended the stand and rested around the base of the monument, where they prepared to perform their ancient rites.

The first course of the proceedings was a brief but appropriate address by Mayor Rice. The Masonic Grand Master of Illinois, J. R. Gwin, then appeared in front of the stand and delivered a short but touching and eloquent address, in which he paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the illustrious deceased, both as a friend and a Mason, and referred to the fact that the statue will be placed on the monument, and will remain visible to the voyager on this inland sea so long as the starlight and the sunbeams love to dance on its crested billows.

The grand chaplain then invoked the Divine blessing upon the solemnities, when the ceremony of laying the corner stone took place according to the Masonic ritual. After a blessing with corn, wine and oil, the stone was lowered in its place, while minute guns were being fired, the band at the time playing a dirge.

The Grand Master congratulated those present on the fact that there was present no less a person than the President of the United States, together with distinguished heads of departments of the government.

A prayer was then delivered by Rev. Wm. H. Milburn, of the Protestant Episcopal church, when the orator of the day, Major General Dix, addressed the assemblage. His oration was very lengthy, and full of interesting reminiscences of the career of the distinguished statesman of the West.

After General Dix had concluded, President Johnson appeared at the front of the platform, and delivered a brief address:—At the conclusion of the President's address, a long address was delivered by Secretary Seward.

Southern Loyalists' Convention. This body which assembled in Philadelphia last week, and remained in session several days, was composed of men of high standing in the South, who adhered to their loyal integrity through the whole of the persecution and obloquy heaped upon them by the Rebels during the war. It was quite a disguised and talented body of men. The late Attorney General of the U. States, Mr. Speed, presided.

On Thursday the Convention adopted a series of resolutions as their platform, and also an address to the people of the United States, appealing for protection—which was unanimously adopted.

Among the concluding sentences of the address are the following:—"Our last and only hope is in the unity and fortitude of the loyal people of America in the support and vindication of the Thirtieth Congress. While the new article amending the National Constitution offers the most liberal conditions to the authors of the rebellion, and does not come up to the measure of our expectations, we believe its ratification would be the commencement of lasting protection to all our people, and, therefore, we accept it as the best present remedy, and appeal to our brothers and friends in the North and the West to make it their watchword in the coming election. The tokens are auspicious of overwhelming success."

The resolutions return thanks to Almighty God for the suppression of a rebellion unparalleled for its causelessness, cruelty and criminality; declare that the unhappy policy of President Johnson is unjust, oppressive and intolerant to the loyal people of the South, and that the restoration of the rebellious States to representation by him would increase the perils and sorrows of loyal men in those States; return thanks to Congress for the support it has given the cause of loyalty; recognize the Constitutional amendment "as the only constitutional plan for restoring the complete Union of all the States as yet proposed," and declare the organizations in the rebellious States claiming to be State Governments are not legitimate Governments until recognized by Congress, as they were illegally established by the President.—The question of suffrage is left to each State to decide for itself. A committee was appointed to present the resolutions and address to Congress upon its re-assembling.

A SAD CASE.—On Wednesday we saw a boy, about ten years of age, who stated that he was motherless and fatherless, and had not where to lay his head. He gave his name as John Henry Dennison, and said his parents, when living, resided in Maryland, near Baltimore. His parents died a short time since, and the lad was left homeless and penniless. The little fellow came here a day or two since from Baltimore, by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, over which he was kindly passed free. He says he has friends residing near this city, to whom his mother was related. The boy was taken charge of by a kindly disposed citizen, who provided him with quarters for the present.—Whaling Register.

By the Atlantic cable we have European news to Friday. Napoleon's health was not good. The rumored matrimonial alliance between the King of Greece and Princess Louise, of England, is denied. The Queen of Spain has visited the Exeise Board cannot be enjoined. Liquor dealers must now take out licenses or pay a heavy penalty.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock, Friday morning, fire was discovered in the upper rooms of the Club House of the Philadelphia Union League, on Broad street, near Chestnut. After much exertion on the part of the firemen, and when considerable damage had been done, the firemen obtained control of the fire. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary, and the janitor of the hall has been arrested.

EX-SENATOR HUNTER.—The Hon. R. M. T. Hunter is living quietly at his place in Essex, Va., tending to farming matters with great energy, and striving to retrieve his fortune and repair the losses inflicted by the war. Since the close of the war his family afflictions have been great, and it was but last week that he was called on to follow to the grave a beloved sister, the fourth member of his household in twelve months.
